Yes, it is the right FOIA number. It is related to Gold King but not related to the release. The request was made several months before.

Richard, if there are additional attorneys that need access to the documents you will need to let David Hoff know who they are, so that they have access rights to the data.

Christie May has been keeping updated on the progress of moving the search documents through IPro, so I appreciate the update for getting them uploaded into Relativity.

Thanks Phoebe.

If that's the right FOIA number (and I'll wait for Richard's response on that) I should be able to build the workspace and begin loading documents on Monday. As far as I know, there are still three batches of documents in processing in OIC that haven't been transferred to me yet. At the moment, I have about 4300 files waiting to be loaded.

Hi David, I now remember the collection we were talking about. It is actually called Upper Animas (which is near Gold King but it's a different FOIA.) I believe the number is: FOIA EPA-R8-2015-004247

I'm including Richard Sisk, the attorney for this FOIA, who will be doing the review in Relativity and hopefully can respond to you about next steps (for his review) and verify that the FOIA number is correct.

Thanks Phoebe

Phoebe, I think this was for the Gold King Mine spill. I'm not entirely certain.

David – can you help refresh my memory on what I asked you? Did we have a case name or project name or even point of contact?

Sorry but I'm on overload and my memory is slipping on what this is. Phoebe

Phoebe,

I have received the first batch of documents from OIC for the spill workspace you asked me to set up.

Is there a FOIA request number associated with this collection?
